JUST READY: PART I.

State Publications

A Provisional List of the Official Publications of the Several States of the United States from their Organization

COMPILED UNDER THE EDITORIAL DIRECTION OF

R. R. BOWKER.

PART I: NEW ENGLAND STATES—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.

The first part of the bibliography of State Publications is just ready. It includes preface giving a sketch of State Bibliography, and 99 pages covering the issues of the New England States from their organization, with blank space for extensions. But 500 copies have been printed, and there are no plates.

The complete work, exceeding 300 pages, will be furnished at $5, and the first part will be sent, only to those subscribing for the whole, on the receipt of subscription and $2 remittance.

The attention of State libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries is especially called to this publication, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State, and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry, for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.

NOTES IN SEASON.

JOHN LANE has just ready Richard Le Gallienne's new book, "The Worshipper of the Image: a tragic fairy tale."

RICHARD G. BADGER & Co. have just ready the long-delayed volume of poems by James Jeffrey Roche, named after his best-known verse "The V-a-s-e."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will shortly publish a posthumous novel by the late Grant Allen, entitled "Hilda Wade." They have in preparation a new novel, by Eden Phillpotts, to be entitled "The Last of Her Line." Mr. Phillpotts's novel, "Children of the Mist," is now selling in its fourteenth edition.

GINN & Co. will publish at once Milton's "L'Allegro, il Penseroso, Comus, and Lycidas," edited, with an introduction and notes, by Tuley Francis Huntington, instructor in English in the Leland Stanford Junior University, formerly Head of Department of English in the South Side High School, Milwaukee.

HARPER & BROTHERS have in preparation the "Letters and Reminiscences of Robert E. Lee," edited by his son, Captain R. E. Lee, which, it is believed, will throw much new light upon the causes that governed the manœuvres of the Confederate army during the closing days of the war. The work will be ready some time before the spring. They have also in preparation "The Charming Renée," by Arabella Kenealy, author of "Men Are Such Gentlemen," etc.; and "The Lost Continent," a new book by Cutcliffe Hyne.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. have just issued an Irving and Terry souvenir. Besides other drawings the leaves contain four pictures in color by Pamela Colman Smith. They represent Sir Henry Irving as he appears in the last act of "Robespierre," and Irving and Miss Terry as they present themselves in "The Merchant of Venice," "Nance Oldfield," and "The Amber Heart." A descriptive text, which has also a biographical tendency, is contributed by Bram Stoker, Sir Henry's manager, and the author of "Dracula."

WILLIAM TEN EYCK HARDENBROOK, 61 East Ninth Street, New York, has just completed the first volume of his sumptuous work on "Financial New York," a comprehensive and authoritative history of the banking and financial institutions of New York from the earliest times to the present. The work is now published by the author himself, and will hereafter be delivered in sections instead of parts, each section containing amount of matter formerly covered by five parts. The price of each section will be $12.50, and four sections will complete a volume.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready the concluding volume of the handsome Centenary edition of Carlyle's works, which includes a number of his fugitive essays and historical sketches, and an index. This will probably remain for years the authoritative edition of Carlyle's writings so far as the text is concerned. Typographically the volumes are all that can be desired. They have also just ready a reprint of "England's Helicon," a collection of lyrical and pastoral poems, edited by A. H. Bullen. "England's Helicon" first published in 1600, and republished with additions in 1614, stands sixth on the list of anthologies published in England, Tottel's "Miscellany," published in 1557, being the first. It contains some of the sweetest lyrical and pastoral poetry of the Elizabethan age, dainty little masterpieces by Lodge, Breton, Greene, Barnfield, and many other true-born poets. Mr. Bullen's introduction will be found as useful to bibliographers as it is interesting to the general reader.

Harrison, Elizabeth. Two children of the foothills. Chic., Sigma Publishing Co., [1899.] c. 294 p. D. cl., $1.25. [4868]

Miss Harrison illustrates in this book, in a practical way, the principles set forth in "A study of child nature." While "A study of child nature" is the one incident of many children, "Two children of the foothills" is the many incidents of two little California urchins, following them through a year of their lives and showing how they were led from seemingly trivial experiences into much deeper emotions, deeds, and thought. In addition to the story, the book contains two of Miss Harrison's strongest lectures—"The science of motherhood" and "The ideals of Froebel's mother play book." These develop the thought underlying the talks between Margaret Sayre, Georgie, and Lena, their stories, songs, occupations, and games.

Hart, Albert Bushnell. Salmon Portland Chase. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 8+465 p. D. (American statesmen ser.) cl., $1.25. [4869]

"It is not the purpose of this volume to give a detailed account of Mr. Chase's private life, nor even to describe fully his long, eventful, and varied public career, but rather to present him as the central figure in three episodes which are of great historic importance—the western political anti-slavery movement, the financial measures of the Civil War, and the process of judicial reconstruction. The biography is, therefore, intended to be a brief history of these three epochs as seen through the activity of the anti-slavery leader, the financier, and the jurist."—Preface

The bond of black was the symbol of an order calling themselves Diabolists, who practised horrible rites intended to villify Christianity. The members stole holy vessels, crucifixes, relics, etc., and left ashes in their places. Two women belonging to the order are actors in many weird scenes. They seem to work evil to all with whom they come in contact.

"My design in this book is to study not the portraits, but the portrait of Christ. I am not concerned with the products of Italian art. I am not occupied with a criticism of the various views which have been taken of Christ in literature. I am not even engaged in a comparison of the four aspects of Christ in the New Testament. The portrait which I study is one hung up in the heart—the combined effect of all the different aspects which the gospels reveal."—Preface.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 23, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE MORALE OF BOOKSELLING.

THESE are no doubt trying times for the timid bookseller who, in the rush of the holiday trade, stops to notice the tactics of some of his department-store neighbors. To the right of him and to the left of him certain firms, with more or less clap-trap, are advertising some of the books of the day at the identical price the bookseller pays for them in quantities, and at times at a trifle less. The bookseller gets into a "blue funk," frets and worries, and threatens to do all sorts of things—cut the publisher, cut the books, and cut his throat. But before he has an opportunity to do either of these things, the rush of customers upsets his plans and somehow he tides over the present emergency, and very likely begins to worry whether his "re-orders" will be promptly filled.

The two most serious mistakes a bookseller can commit at this season of the year are to attempt to meet the pretended cut of his rivals, and to drop from his stock the books that are advertised at a so-called "enormous" reduction. Every bookseller knows, and the public is beginning to find out, that the advertising of certain popular books at "enormously" reduced prices is a trick of the trade, the firm resorting to the trick keeping well within the letter of their offer by actually selling a few copies on certain days at the advertised price, but destroying the value of the bargain to the purchaser by defacing it with their advertisement offensively stamped on the title-page. It is a trick, by the way, that has long been discarded by houses who value their reputation for fair dealing.

Then, the bookseller who allows himself to be upset by the "scare-heads" of his rivals, who scents ruin in keeping up the stock of the books thus seemingly sacrificed, and actually drops these books from his list, will find, sooner or later, that he does so to his own undoing, because he runs the risk of losing trade from the very people who, being disappointed in getting the books at the stores which excited a demand for them, turn to the bookseller willing to pay him any price within reason.

We advise the trade, therefore, to preserve their equilibrium, and to stick to the principle of selling goods at the lowest possible prices that insure a profit; to keep in stock the books that are in demand, and to hold themselves in readiness to supply promptly every book that is called for, though it may not be in stock; to give good and intelligent service, and to let others fool the public to their own cost in the end.

CHANGES IN THE DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO.

THE year that is coming to a close will stand in the annals of the book trade as one that witnessed the most startling changes and rumors of changes that have occurred in all its history. The most remarkable of these was connected with the oldest house in the publishing ranks; the more recent is connected with the name of the youngest member of the trade—namely, Doubleday & McClure Co. The following official statement, made public on December 17, will in part explain itself:

"Several changes will take place early in the new year in the Doubleday & McClure book-publishing company, which will strengthen it in its rapidly growing business—changes which will not affect the actual management of its affairs. Mr. Walter H. Page, formerly editor of the Atlantic Monthly and literary adviser to Houghton, Mifflin & Company, will become a partner and devote himself to the literary work of the firm. Mr. J. L. Thompson, who has been business manager since the company was organized, Mr. Henry W. Lanier, son of the late Sidney Lanier, who has been connected with the house from the first, and Mr. S. A. Everitt, who has had charge of the manufacturing department, will all be admitted into partnership. Mr. James MacArthur, formerly editor of The Bookman, is just sailing for England to represent the house in London and have charge of its foreign interests.

"The name of the company, it is expected, will be changed eventually to Doubleday, Page & Company, as successors to Doubleday & McClure Co., and the business will remove to 34 Union Square, East, having outgrown its present quarters in East Twenty-fifth Street which it occupied with the S. S. McClure Company. The latter company itself requires more space by reason of the development of McClure's Magazine, the new encyclopedia, and other publishing enterprises."

Contrary to the insinuations of the sensational press, S. S. McClure and Frank N. Doubleday remain as cordial friends as ever, and will be associated in several business matters. Mr. McClure has under way a number of publishing enterprises with which Mr. Doubleday could not merge his without sinking his identity, hence each will hereafter act independently of each other, the one as S. S. McClure Company, the other as Doubleday, Page & Co.

S. S. McClure, of the S. S. McClure Company, in referring to the change, said: "Some time ago I decided to go into the book-publishing business myself, and as I couldn't go into it and still be a member of the firm of Doubleday & McClure, I decided to establish a separate business. I organized a book staff and will found a book-publishing business, McClure's Review, and the encyclopædia. There is no change in the S. S. McClure Company. The business founded by S. S. McClure remains as it was. The Doubleday & McClure Company was founded two years ago between the S. S. McClure Company and Mr. Doubleday for the publishing of books. The only change the McClure Company makes is to go directly into the book-publishing business rather than publish books by a separate company. I have organized a very strong business and editorial book staff, and will publish books on the same principle as the magazine. We'll publish the most interesting we can get. I have great affection and esteem for Mr. Doubleday. I am very sorry to have him leave me. I regard Mr. Page and Mr. Doubleday as two men who will found one of the greatest publishing houses of the country in a very few years. In the meantime I shall do some 'founding' myself."

AMERICAN BIBLIOGRAPHERS.

HENRY STEVENS.—II.*

"Henry Stevens, an American to the backbone, would have rejoiced to do for his own country what he did for England. But England employed him to do it and America did not, and it is too late to repair the blunder. No collection of American books equal to that in the British Museum can ever again be got together. The time is past. His 'Catalogue of the American Books in the Library of the British Museum at Christmas, 1856,' (650 p. 8°,) 'A Catalogue of Mexican and other Spanish-American and West India Books in the Library of the British Museum, Christmas, 1856,' (64 p. 8°,) 'A Catalogue of Canadian and other British-American Books in the Library of the British Museum, Christmas, 1856,' (16 p. 8°,) and 'A Catalogue of American Maps in the Library of the British Museum, Christmas, 1856,' (16 p. 8°,) published in 1859 in two volumes, comprised about 750 large octavo pages in double columns, similar to the 'Bibliotheca Grenvilliana,' described about 20,000 volumes under about 14,000 full titles. When Stevens began collecting for the Museum, in 1845, the whole number did not exceed 4000. The other 16,000 were due to him. One of his reasons for printing the catalogue was to show, side by side, as he said, both the richness and the poverty of the collection. He effected his object, and between 1857 and 1862 the number doubled. That is to say, in 1862 the American Department in the British Museum possessed 40,000 volumes, counting only books printed in America, and not counting books, maps, etc., in all languages relating to America, in which the Museum is very rich, nor counting American books reprinted in England, against the 20,000 volumes it had on its shelves in 1857."*

And for much of what we actually have in America concerning our own country we have to thank Henry Stevens. He was the agent of many American collectors, often with authority to buy on his own judgment. His best-known general client was, perhaps, James Lenox a large part of whose library was collected by Henry Stevens. No man knew so much about early editions of the Bible; no one perhaps so much about early voyages and travels. These, with the Americana, were the subjects to which Stevens devoted himself, and on which he will ever remain an authority. Caxton was another topic which interested him, and he did much for the Caxton Exhibition at South Kensington in 1877, in preparing, in an incredibly short time, a catalogue of the Bibles then shown, which was printed with the title: "The Bibles in the Caxton Exhibition, 1877; or, a Bibliographical Description of Nearly One Thousand Representative Bibles in Various Languages." (London, 1878. roy. 8°.)

Mr. Stevens also did excellent work in preparing indexes to the Colonial Documents of New Jersey, Rhode Island, Maryland, and Virginia. The first of these was published under the following title: "An Analytical Index to the Colonial Documents of New Jersey in the State Paper Offices of England. Compiled by Henry Stevens. Edited, with Notes and References to Printed Books and Manuscripts in Other Depositories, by William A. Whitehead." Published for the New Jersey Historical Society, 1858. (xxx+504 p. 8°.)

The second index, entitled "Stevens's Collection of Historical Papers relating to Rhode Island. Selected, Transcribed, and Arranged by him chiefly from the State Paper Offices in London, 1640-1775," was made for and deposited in the library of John Carter Brown, of Providence, R. I. It forms six folio volumes.

His "Historical Index of the Colonial Documents relating to Maryland, in her Majesty's State Paper Office of England," was compiled by Stevens on his own responsibility and was sold to Mr. Peabody at £100—considerably less than the actual cost of engrossing the material, which formed ten quarto volumes. Mr. Peabody presented the work to the Library of the Maryland Historical Society, where it is now preserved.

His "Historical Index of Documents relating to Virginia, from 1585 to 1775, preserved in the State Paper Office of London," was deposited by exchange in the Virginia State Library in 1858. It is on 2000 cards, chronologically arranged, but was never completed and engrossed.

In 1857 Stevens edited Franklin's "Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity, Pleasure and Pain," of which 25 copies were carefully reprinted in facsimile from the London edition of 1725, by Whittingham. It was reprinted in Vol. I. of Parton's "Life of Franklin." In 1862 he published No. 1 of "My Informant: Containing a List of the Principal English, French, and German Periodicals and Transactions, with the Prices to the Public and the Trade; together with a List of above 200 Works for Sale, chiefly relating to America."

In 1869 D. Appleton & Co. printed for Stevens 100 copies of a thin octavo volume of 40 pages, entitled "Historical and Geographical Notes, 1459-1869." The work, according to the author, "was seen through the press with some difficulty, and there are in it many typographical errors, and some ill-considered statements, so that the whole issue still slumbers in its original package. Some few of the mistakes are alluded to in the end in the sentence beginning, 'Let him that is not without errata in his own life correct neatly with his pen, and pardon these of mine.'"

In the same year, 1869, he published "Historical and Geographical Notes on the Earliest Discoveries in America, 1453-1530. With Comments on the Earliest Charts and Maps; the Mistakes of the Early Navigators, and the Blunders of the Geographers; the Asiatic Origin of the Atlantic Coast-Line of North America, how it crept in and how it crept out of the Maps. The whole illustrated by the Tehuantepec Railway Company's Map of the World on Mercator's projection, and photo-lithographic facsimiles of many of the earliest maps and charts of America. New Haven: office of the American Journal of Science. London: office of the Author, 4 Trafalgar Square, 1869." (54 p. with frontispieces and six large sheets of maps, royal 8°.)

Among his later bibliographical works were the following:

Bibliotheca Geographica et Historica; or, A Catalogue of a Sale of Ancient and Modern Books, Maps, &c., illustrative of Historical Geography, History, &c. Part I. London, 1872. 8°.

American Books with Tails to 'em: a Private Pocket-List of the Incomplete or Unfinished American Periodicals, Transactions, Legislative Documents, and other Continuations, etc. London, [Privately printed,] 1873. 16°.

Photo-Bibliography; or, A Word on Printed Card Catalogue of Old, Rare and Costly Books, and how to make them on a Co-Operative System. London, 1878, [Privately printed.] 16°.

Historical Collections, 1881-1886. 2 vols.

Who Spoils our new English Books. Asked and Answered by Henry Stevens of Vermont, Bibliographer and lover of Books, etc. . . . Christmas, 1884. 38 p. 32°

Henry Stevens was in his own department one of the most learned and accurate bibliographers who ever lived. He certainly had no superior, if he had an equal, in London. People who knew him slightly may easily be misled as to his real ability by the whimsicalities in which he delighted to indulge. On the title-page of the most serious volume he ever published he describes himself as "Henry Stevens, G.M.B., M.A., F.S.A., etc." The student of the British Museum or elsewhere might puzzle long over these initials before he discovered that G.M.B. stands for Green Mountain Boy. He clung to his birthplace and old home with pathetic, affectionate tenacity, and habitually signed himself, in print as well as in private, Henry Stevens, of Vermont. That is the name he puts to all of his publications. Then usually followed a list of antiquarian and historical societies, in both worlds, of which he was member; then, without visible transition, or so much as a comma, "Black Balled Athenæum Club of London also Patriarch of Skull and Bones of Yale. . . . B.A. and M.A. of Yale College, as well as Citizen of Noviomagus et cetera." Noviomagus, Mr. Smalley takes to be Croydon or some place near Croydon, in England, or perhaps Surbiton, and not one of the many other better-known places to which that name was given in earlier days. There is, however, a club of antiquaries called the Noviomagians to which Stevens belonged.

After a long and painful illness, Mr. Stevens was called away from his labors on the 28th of February, 1886. He was a real loss to letters as well as to bibliography. But, as the London Times said: "Esteemed as he was for his knowledge, ability, and shrewd common sense, he was even more beloved for his frank manliness his kindly nature, and rich genial humor."

The following memorial card was issued by Henry Stevens & Son in March, 1886:

In Affectionate Remembrance of

HENRY STEVENS

Lover of Books

BORN AT BARNET VERMONT 24 AUGUST 1819
THE VOLUME OF WHOSE EARTHLY LABOR WAS CLOSED IN LONDON 28 FEBRUARY 1886 IN
THE SIXTY-SEVENTH YEAR OF HIS AGE

"And another book was opened which is the book of Life."

Books are both our luxuries and our daily bread. They have become to our lives and happiness prime necessities. They are our trusted favorites, our guardians, our confidential advisers, and the safe consumers of our leisure. They cheer us in poverty, and comfort us in the misery of affluence. They absorb the effervescence of impetuous youth, and while away the tedium of age.—H. S.

The remains of the late Henry Stevens of Vermont were laid to rest in West Hempstead Cemetery on Thursday 4 March 1886. "To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

THE DURATION OF COPYRIGHT.

THE question, "How long should copyright last?" was discussed in the London Academy for December 2, by Herbert Spencer, Frederic Harrison, Dr. F. J. Furnivall, G. Bernard Shaw, W. L. Courtney, Rider Haggard, Edward Clodd, Alfred Nutt, Anthony Hope, and Dr. W. Robertson Nicoll. The writers seem agreed that perpetual copyright is impracticable and undesirable. There seems to be a strong feeling among English authors that copyright should endure throughout the author's lifetime, and at least eighty years added, which may therefore easily extend to one hundred and twenty years or more. The extreme views held by English authors are those of Frederic Harrison and Sir Walter Besant—the former claiming that "the proper period for the duration of copyright should be seven years from registration," and the latter that copyright should be perpetual.

In this country the sentiment of the authors who have been thus far induced to express their opinion seems to be in favor of perpetual copyright. Among publishers the feeling is the other way. George Haven Putnam, in an interview with a representative of the Boston Literary World, is reported to have said: "It is my belief that such perpetual control of literary productions would not prove of sufficient advantage to the producers of literature to offset the serious detriment to the community. This is the judgment that has been arrived at by the legislators who have framed the copyright laws of the civilized States of the world, in connection with which laws the question of perpetual copyright has, during the past century, received a very thorough discussion." George H. Mifflin, of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., took much the same view.

Rand, McNally & Co. express themselves in favor of perpetual copyright. They say: "We consider the present limitation of copyright is an injustice to the author, and would most heartily recommend the substitution of a perpetual copyright. The result of a man's brain should no more be stolen from him after a stated period of time than his house, his land, or any other of his real or personal property."

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE DINNER.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE will give a dinner to its members and friends at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, on the evening of February 7 next. The Dinner Committee is composed of Miles Vernon, James H. Mairs, Patrick Farrelly, Charles A. Appleton, J. Walker Spalding, Charles W. Allen, and Robert Gair. The Committee of Arrangements is composed of James H. Mairs, George C. Boorum, and James C. Aiken.

The Board is in a prosperous condition financially, and is doing better work than ever. Gradually the members who dropped out because they were dissatisfied with the management of the affairs of the Board are asking to be readmitted. At the last meeting three important houses made such application and were re-elected. The annual meeting will be held January 2, when a new Board of Trustees will be elected. The Board meets a week later and elects the officers. The president, H. C. Bainbridge, deserves great credit for his able management, and the Board may congratulate itself upon the administration of its affairs.

OBITUARY.

BERNARD QUARITCH.

BERNARD QUARITCH, the world-renowned bookseller, died in London on the 17th inst., in his eighty-first year. For the best part of half a century Bernard Quaritch held his position as the greatest dealer in old books in the world. "The Napoleon of the book trade" was one of the many titles bestowed on him by collectors, to many of whom his word was law so far as the value or rarity of a volume was concerned. It is no exaggeration to say that he made in great measure the modern market for scarce books. His methods were the same as those of a financier. He would "corner" a certain line of books, and then bull the price on them until the public followed his lead. But he was something more than an astute dealer. He had a true love for his business and a large and intimate knowledge of the history of books; while, if he desired a volume, no price was ever too great for him to pay.

Mr. Quaritch was born April 23, 1819, at Worbis, Prussia. In 1842 he went to London, where he found employment with Henry George Bohn. Five years later, in April, he began business for himself with a capital of £50. Since that time his business has steadily grown in volume and in importance. At every great sale in England, and abroad, Quaritch was present either in person or by proxy to capture the great prizes. To sum up his great purchases would cover pages of our WEEKLY, and a few instances must suffice. At the Sunderland sale he bought up to $165,000, and at the Hamilton sale his total outlay was over $200,000. At the sale of the Ashburnham library he was the heaviest buyer, and succeeded in capturing the rarest treasures.

A visit to Mr. Quaritch's bookshop in Piccadilly was something which few Americans could forego if they desired to see all the sights of London. From the outside one could gather absolutely no idea of the treasures within. There was the name "Bernard Quaritch" in faded letters over the entrance, and behind a dingy window a few unimportant volumes. But within one found room after room of a big building crammed with the greatest treasures of bibliography—first editions of the classics, Aldines, Elzevirs, Shakespeare folios and quartos, illuminated manuscripts, splendid bindings, everything that is rare and curious and desirable to the collector. As evidence of the amount of treasures kept in stock by Quaritch, we may call attention to a lot of books offered a short time ago at a lump sum of a quarter of a million dollars. And Mr. Quaritch was equally interesting with his books. His mind was a perfect encyclopædia of knowledge of bibliographical lore.

As to another side of his character, perhaps the best description is that which was given several years ago in The World of London: "Mr. Quaritch's good deeds few know, nor would he care to have them set forth; but when homes have been broken up he has made new ones, where help has been sorely needed he has given it; he has been a father to the fatherless, and provided for young children, now middle-aged men and women, and all, if not secretly, quite unostentatiously; and he has so endeared himself to an unusually large number of people, that when he dies—which heaven send may be many years hence!—a good deal of light and warmth will pass away from this dim, chilly world, leaving it sensibly darker and colder to many when the old bookseller is gone and Bernard Quaritch is no longer at home at 15 Piccadilly."

For a fuller sketch of his career as a bookseller and a portrait we refer our readers to THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for November 6, 1897, (Vol. liii., No. 1345.)

EFFINGHAM MAYNARD—IN MEMORIAM.

THE Advisory Board of the Astor Place Bank, of which the late Mr. Maynard was one of the original stockholders and directors, at a meeting held on the 14th inst. passed the following resolutions:

We are called upon to mourn the loss of one of our most esteemed associates. Mr. Effingham Maynard was an original stockholder and director of the Astor Place Bank, and through all its history has been an interested and faithful counsellor. To his sound judgment and practical advice much of our success has been due. He had qualities which peculiarly fitted him for the banking business. Had he not already been distinguished and successful as a publisher he might as a financier have won even greater eminence.

In the particularly difficult department of credits his insight seemed phenomenal, and the management never had reason to regret accepting his advice in any doubtful matter. Above all other considerations he placed positive safety—the security of principal always outranked increase of income.

He recognized that the monotonous and steady trade winds will waft the vessel of finance more quickly and safely than all the shifting blasts of speculation.

This conservative disposition on the part of our friend was illumined by unusual integrity of thought and conduct. The idea of taking an advantage of a fellow-being under any circumstances was repugnant to him. An amiable personality was the visible index of a loyal and honorable soul. We bid farewell to him with a keen sense of business and personal loss.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MRS. JULIA BROWN SADLIER, widow of Denis Sadlier, died on the 11th inst., at the home of her son, James F. Sadlier, 260 West Eighty-eighth Street, New York. Mrs. Sadlier was born in Dublin in 1811. Her husband was the founder of the firm of D. & J. Sadlier & Co., at one time one of the most important Catholic publishing houses in this country.

DR. NÉSTOR PONCE DE LEON, an author of several works in Spanish, died on the 19th inst. in Havana, Cuba, aged sixty three years. Dr. Ponce de Leon was a native of Cuba and a lineal descendant of Ponce de Leon, the discoverer of Florida. He came to New York about thirty years ago, and for the greater part was engaged in the practice of law. About eight months ago he returned to Cuba, and in September was appointed director of the Museum of Natural History in Havana. The best-known and more important of his books is the "Diccionario Tecnológico, Inglés-Español y Español-Inglés." His son, Mr. Ponce de Leon, was for a time a bookseller and importer in New York.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HENRY T. FINCK, whose work on "Primitive Love and Love Stories" has just been published by Charles Scribner's Sons, is engaged upon another book, to be entitled "Songs and Song Writers," which he expects to have ready for publication next spring. The volume will concern itself chiefly with the neglected treasures of lyric song.

CASPAR WHITNEY, well known to the trade as the author of "Sporting Pilgrimage," "On Snow Shoes to the Barren Grounds," "Hawaiian America," etc., will sever his connection with Harper's Weekly January 1 next, to engage in the publishing of books on sport, travel, and adventure. He also intends publishing a high-class magazine devoted to sport, and later in the year a weekly paper to cover current comment, news, criticism, etc.

The Genealogical Advertiser for December, published by Lucy Hall Greenlaw, Cambridge, Mass., contains an appreciative and interesting sketch of the life and work of John Ward Dean, librarian of the New England Historic Genealogical Society. Mr. Dean, it appears, was born in Wiscasset, in what was then the District of Maine, March 13, 1815. As a boy he was apprenticed to a bookbinder. As a journeyman bookbinder he worked in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Providence. In 1841 he went into the bookbinding business for himself in Providence, and subsequently in Boston. He retired from the stamping and gilding business, to which trade he had confined himself, in 1872, when he accepted the librarianship of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, of which he had become a member in 1850 and which he had served in almost every office. In 1889 he resigned his librarianship to edit the society's Register, but accepted a reappointment in 1892. He has edited the New England Historical and Genealogical Register since 1876. He also edited volumes I. and II., parts 1 and 2, of the first series, and during Mr. Dawson's illness volume IV., part 6, of the second series of the Historical Magazine. Several books and many pamphlets have also been issued under his oversight. Among the better-known books written by him are the memoirs of the Rev. Nathaniel Ward, author of the "Simple Cobbler of Agawam," and of the Rev. Michael Migglesworth, author of "The Day of Doom." A photogravure portrait, after the painting by J. Harvey Young, accompanies the sketch.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Smart Set is to be the title of a new periodical which modestly announces itself as "a magazine of cleverness." The first number will be published March 10 next, by the Ess Ess Publishing Company, 1135 Broadway, New York.

THE book number of the Chicago Times-Herald is among the most attractive issues that have appeared this year. Twelve of its immense pages are devoted to the important books of the season admirably described and judiciously illustrated with reproductions of illustrations from the more important books. For calling the attention of Western readers to the holiday literature, no better medium could be chosen. The same is true also of the book number of the Chicago Evening Post, which gives up thirty-six of its pages to the discussion of the best holiday books. The opening page of the Post's book number is encircled with an attractive border, especially designed for the number. It is also embellished with reproductions of representative illustrations from the new books.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

TEMPLE SCOTT has in preparation a "Bibliography of Omar Khayyám."

THE BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY of Chicago was organized on the evening of December 8 at a meeting held in the Public Library rooms. Its membership comprises representatives of the libraries of Chicago, of the University and other educational institutions, of the publishing interests, and of the general book-loving element of the public. It is a national rather than a local association in scope, having the field to itself as far as the United States is concerned. The aims of the society are stated as follows: (1) to encourage and promote bibliographical study and research; (2) to compile and publish special bibliographies; and (3) to arouse interest in the history of books and libraries.

THE BULLETIN OF THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY, Vol. III., Number II, November, contains a list of the works relating to South Africa, in the library. The arrangement of the list is as follows: South Africa in General—older books, maps, history, politics, etc., hunting, adventure, etc., mines and mining, ethnology, and miscellany; British Possessions in general; British South Africa Company; British Possessions—Basutoland, Bechuanaland, British Kaffaria, Cape Colony, Griqualand, Mashonaland, Matabeleland, Natal, Pondoland, Rhodesia, St. Luca Bay, Swaziland, Tongaland, Walvisch Bay, and Zululand; Orange Free State; South African Republic (the Transvaal); German Possessions; and Portuguese Possessions. The collection is remarkably comprehensive, and includes the more recent as well as the older books, covering 32½ octavo pages.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Henry Carey Baird & Co., 810 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Sanitary science, gas-fitting, plumbing, steam and hot water heating, etc., hydraulics, gas, gas works, etc. (January 1, 1900, 8 p. 8°).—Francis Edwards, 83 High St., Marylebone, London, Miscellaneous. ## LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

GEORGE C. SHAW, of Cincinnati, informs us that the publication of "The Hesperian Tree" has been unavoidably delayed until after Christmas. This annual will contain upwards of seventy original articles contributed by James Lane Allen, W. D. Howells, the Hon. Murat Halstead, Mrs. Catherwood, and other equally well-known Western writers.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY announce that they have difficulty in keeping up with the demand for Ralph Connor's delightfully original and wholesome story, "The Sky-Pilot, a tale of the Foothills." The author's first story, "Black Rock, a tale of the Selkirks," is also doing so well that the publishers have been encouraged to put them up together as a set.

THE five best-selling books in New York during November were "Janice Meredith," "Richard Carvel," "David Harum," "Mr. Dooley in the Hearts of His Countrymen," and George Ade's "Fables in Slang." The last-named book has leaped into popularity. The publishers announce the printing of the 19th thousand within three weeks of publication.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have in press "A History of American Literature," by Professor Walter C. Bronson, of Brown University. The exceptional facilities for the preparation of a history of American literature which are afforded by the extensive and unique collections in the library of Brown University make Professor Bronson's book one of more than ordinary moment. They are about to publish Lamartine's "Scènes de la Révolution Française," being selections from Lamartine made by Professor O. B. Super, of Dickinson College, and provided with notes.

THE appearance of the 150th thousand of that fine historical romance, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," was celebrated by the publishers by the publication of a new edition, printed from new plates on a new and heavier paper. To this edition is added a portrait and biographical sketch of the author, and a portrait of Julia Marlowe, for whom the book is being dramatized. Both the author and the publishers have cause to be most proud of the book's continued success. During every month of 1899 the book has ranked among the six best-selling books, and in each month its sale has increased. At this time orders are largely in excess of one thousand copies a day.

SAMUEL CARSON has established himself in New York, at 111 Fifth Avenue, in the office of Werner Company, as manufacturers' agent and broker in books and plates. He will buy and sell remainders of editions, electro and stereo plates, and do a general commission business. Mr. Carson hardly needs introduction to the trade, having served it man and boy for over forty years in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. As a commercial traveller, also, he has visited the trade in every section of the country, north and south, east and west. While in business for himself in San Francisco, he represented as selling agent almost every leading publisher in the East. From 1884 to 1888 he published the Overland Monthly. In 1893, owing to the failure of the Pacific Bank, he was obliged to liquidate, which he did with the consent, we believe, of every one of his creditors, without going into court or making any assignment. When he left San Francisco he was presented with a testimonial signed by nearly all the San Francisco trade. Upon his return to New York he accepted a position as commercial traveller for Lovell, Coryell & Co. More recently he was connected with The Werner Company of Akron, O. Mr. Carson has a host of friends who will wish him success in his new enterprise.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

BOOKBINDING FOR PUBLISHERS

It is easy enough to solicit and obtain business when you can offer low prices. But it is necessary to have something besides low prices. A good reputation, good work and the ability to live up to contracts are some of these qualifications. There are many bookbinders who will take work for a low price and then cheapen the binding and delay the work because they have not the facilities of turning it out, thus defrauding the publishers.

In my new place of business, in the building at the corner of Centre and Leonard Streets, where I have a floor space of over 40,000 square feet, filled with the very latest and most modern machinery, such as automatic cutting and trimming machines, rapid quadruple folding machines, new model Smyth sewing machines, the most powerful smashing machines, the very latest improved Crawley rounding and backing machines, Smyth bookcase machines, and the very finest stamping department in this city, all run by my own electric plant, also a very extensive marbling and edge gilding department, managed by the most skilled mechanics. My capacity is over 15,000 cloth bound books per day, and I can do the best work at the lowest prices. I can safely say that I can save publishers who have large editions to be bound from 10 to 20 per cent. on all bindings. I am now ready to make arrangements for bindings for the year 1900.

This is not a plant run by capitalists, or any other moneyed trust or syndicate as a venture, but a well-appointed bindery, managed by a practical man who has made a life study of bookbinding, and has risen from apprenticeship to ownership.
